Abstract

The abstract should normally be presented as one paragraph and should not exceed 250 words. It should briefly state the research background or problem, objective, methodology, principal findings, and conclusion. The abstract should be self-contained and should not contain references, tables, or figures.

Keywords: keyword one; keyword two; keyword three; keyword four; keyword five.

1. Introduction

Present the background and context of the study, the research problem, significance, objectives, and research questions or hypotheses where applicable. Clearly identify the research gap and explain the scientific or practical contribution of the study. Relevant and recent scholarly references should support the main statements.

2. Methodology / Materials and Methods

Describe the research design, study population and sample where applicable, data sources, instruments, procedures, variables, and analytical or statistical methods. The description should be sufficiently clear to allow readers to understand and, where appropriate, reproduce the study.

3. Results

Present the findings clearly and systematically. Tables and figures should be used when they improve clarity. Avoid repeating all information from a table or figure in the text; instead, highlight the most important findings relevant to the research objectives.

Table 1. Title of the table

Variable	Value 1	Value 2	Note

4. Discussion

Interpret and discuss the findings in relation to the research objectives, theoretical framework, and previous studies. Explain similarities and differences with earlier research and provide scientifically supported interpretations of the results.

5. Conclusions

Present the principal conclusions derived directly from the findings. Conclusions should be concise, evidence-based, and clearly related to the research objectives.

6. Recommendations

Provide practical or scientific recommendations that follow directly from the findings. This section may be omitted when recommendations are not appropriate for the nature of the study.

7. Future Research

Identify research directions that may arise from the findings, limitations, or unanswered questions of the present study.

8. Acknowledgements

Acknowledge funding organizations, institutions, or individuals who made a substantial academic or technical contribution to the research, where applicable.

9. Conflict of Interest

Authors should declare any actual or potential conflict of interest. Example: The authors declare that there is no conflict of interest related to this study.

10. Funding

State the source of financial support, if any. Example: This research received no external funding.

11. Author Contributions

For manuscripts with multiple authors, briefly specify each author's contribution to study conception and design, data collection, analysis, writing, revision, and final approval of the manuscript.

12. References

References and in-text citations should follow the American Psychological Association (APA), 7th edition, unless the journal's specific instructions require otherwise. Every source cited in the text must appear in the reference list, and every reference listed should be cited in the manuscript.

Example of an English journal article reference:

Author, A. A. (Year). Title of the article. Journal Title, volume(issue), page–page.
<https://doi.org/xxxxx>

Example of an Arabic reference:

Family Name, First Name. (Year). Title of the book or article. Publisher/Journal Title, volume(issue), pages. <https://doi.org/xxxxx>

13. General Formatting Guidelines

- Paper size: A4.
- Margins: 2.5 cm on all sides.
- Font: Times New Roman for the English manuscript.
- Main text: 14 pt.
- Main headings: 16 pt, bold.
- Subheadings: 14 pt, bold.
- Line spacing: 1.5.

- Tables and figures should be numbered consecutively and provided with clear, informative titles or captions.
- All in-text citations must correspond exactly to entries in the reference list.
- Use consistent scientific terminology and avoid unnecessary rhetorical or non-academic language.
- Delete all instructional and placeholder text before submitting the final manuscript.

Editorial Note to Authors

This document is an author template intended to facilitate manuscript preparation. Authors should also comply with the journal's current submission, ethical, originality, peer-review, and publication policies. Before submission, carefully check the language, accuracy of data, completeness of references, tables and figures, and consistency of formatting.
